Negotiations are pending for the sale of some valuable lots between the book store and the railroad, and if sales are made some handsome business buildings will be put up at once. And still we grow.

One of our farmers tells us that he had helping him on his farm this week his son 10 years old and an old man 96, an event which is not of every day occurrence. He says the two made one good hand for saving fodder.

Postmaster Clarke informs the editor that just now he is receiving more inquiries about Southern Pines than ever before, and that people from every section are writing for information concerning the town.

M. Jack Torbert who has filled the position of clerk in the post office for several months past left Monday night for New York where he will have an injured eye treated and probably taken out. He will visit his folks in Delta, Pa., before returning in two months.

Mr. W. R. Douglass from Morning Sun, Ohio, arrived last Wednesday evening and will take his place as violin teacher in the Potter school of Music, Art and Elocution. Miss Myrtie Pauline Muse, of Carthage also arrived this week and will occupy her place as piano assistant to Prof. Potter.

A gentleman reached Southern Pines last Sunday from Baltimore expecting to find work by which he could make money enough to keep him here for the benefit of his health. His condition was a sad one, as he was not able to work, and as he did not have money to pay his board for more than two weeks, he was advised to return at once, which he did.

The Cosmopolitan Literary Club.

In spite of stormy weather a goodly number attended the meeting of the club Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Hamlin and Mr. Herman Junge were added to the membership roll.

Besides receiving and laying over for action next week several amendments to the constitution which had been suggested at a meeting of the Ex. Com. held last Monday evening, the members greatly enjoyed a piano duet by the Misses Brown, which was followed by a general discussion of the single tax theory with Dr. Edwin Gladmon in the chair.

It is impossible just here for us to discuss in detail the merits or demerits of the theory of single tax, but note that the club seemed to manifest much interest, and gave the Doctor a varied assortment of questions, which, however, were answered very promptly.

A Dialogue—"Destiny," by Mr. C. M. Williams, was also a special feature of the evening, in which the Misses Brown, Miss Grover, Miss Dunn and Messrs. Sewell, Wainwright, Brewer, and Brown took part, doing honor to themselves and furnishing a few moments of genuine pleasure to the audience.

We are promised some extra music for next Thursday evening, and the program committee announces that it is to be Manuscript Evening.

A Measuring Party.

There will be an entertainment in King's daughters' hall Wednesday evening, Sept. 13th commencing at 7:45, termed a measuring party.

A measuring party we give unto you,
'Tis something novel and new;
Three cts for every foot you're tall
We'll measure you on door or wall;
One penny for every three inches more,

And Mr. Patch will make the score.
Other entertainment will be given and light refreshments served. Come and have a good time.
